

Connecting India---

For more than 60 years Ramboll has been involved in cutting edge telecommunication projects all over the world. Our projects are made in close cooperation with our customers to ensure their total satisfaction. In the last two decades we have been providing a full spectrum of services within mobile and broadband rollouts.

In India we are now offering among our many services the latest design in towers. We are taking all issues and activities in constructing base stations into account in order to provide our customers with the most cost effective solution. We are working close together with SERC appreciating their professional approach and our common understanding of the specific and special details in our tower structures. www.ramboll.dk/eng
